The Idaho Water Resource Board made the following decisions regarding loan requests during its meeting last week in Boise:

- Approved a $500,000 loan request from the Cub River Irrigation Company in Southeastern Idaho. The money will be used to build a gravity irrigation system.
- Denied a $69,000 loan request from the Northside Estates Homeowners Association. The money was requested to improve a community water system.
- Approved a $320,000 loan request from the Hoyt Bluff Water Association located north of Rathdrum. The money will be used to build a new water supply well.
- Approved an $85,000 loan request from the Mores Creek Rim Ranches Water District north of Boise. The money will be used for an arsenic removal system designed to meet new federal requirements.
